DOING THE HOLIDAYS DIFFERENTLY.

If you have a child or youth with mental health challenges, you may already adapt things around the holiday season. Many of us do. As the 2020 Holiday Season may be one for the record books, let's get together and talk about what that might look like for families like ours. We've also gathered ideas from our team of PiRs, and can share great tips for how we can increase connections, reduce holiday stress and find a little more breathing space during this important time.
